Dear David,

I hope this email finds you well. Recently, I've been thinking about how important electronic devices are in our daily lives. I think they help us (17) a lot of tasks. For example, my smartphone allows me to check emails, set alarms, and even learn new things online.

At home, we have (18) electronic gadgets to make life easier. For instance, our kitchen has a microwave, a refrigerator, and a coffee maker. These devices save so much time! My sister spends a lot of time (19) her laptop because she needs it for studying and watching movies.

I also bought a new tablet last week. It is very (20), so I can carry it everywhere. However, I believe that too much use of electronic devices can be (21), especially if we don't take breaks. That's why I try to spend time outdoors, too.

Do you often use electronic devices? I'd love to hear your (22) about how they affect your life.

Best wishes,

Sylvie

LIFE IN THE PAST

Introduction

Life in the past was very different from life today. People lived in smaller communities, had fewer modern conveniences, and relied more on simple tools and natural resources to meet their daily needs. Let's take a journey back in time to understand how people worked, learned, and spent their free time.

Daily Life

In the past, most people worked as farmers, craftsmen, or merchants. They often spent long hours in the fields, growing crops or raising animals. Women usually stayed at home to cook, sew, and care for the children. There were no refrigerators, so people preserved food by drying, salting, or smoking it. Children often helped with chores instead of attending school all day.

Education

Schools in the past were much simpler than they are today. Many children, especially those in rural areas, didn't attend school regularly because they had to help their families. Teachers used blackboards, chalk, and books to teach basic skills like reading, writing, and arithmetic. Classrooms were often small, with few supplies and strict discipline.

Technology and Transportation

People in the past didn't have electricity or running water. Candles and oil lamps were used for light, and wells were dug to get water. For transportation, most people walked, rode horses, or used carriages. Traveling long distances was slow and difficult.

Entertainment

Without televisions, computers, or smartphones, entertainment was simpler. Families often gathered to tell stories, sing songs, or play traditional games. Communities also held events like festivals, dances, or markets, which were great opportunities for people to socialize.

Community Spirit

Life in the past often involved a strong sense of community. Neighbors helped each other with big tasks like building houses or harvesting crops. People valued traditions and passed them down through generations.

LIFE IN THE PAST

Introduction:

Have you ever wondered what life was like in the past? The world has changed a lot over the years, and the way people lived many decades ago is very different from today. Let's take a look back in time and explore how people worked, communicated, and spent their free time.

Life at Work:

In the past, most people worked in farming or small workshops. Machines were rare, so tasks were done by hand. Farmers used simple tools to grow crops, while craftsmen made goods like clothes or furniture without modern technology. Life was harder, but people were often proud of their handmade products.

Communication:

There were no smartphones, emails, or social media. Letters were the main way to stay in touch with others. People wrote letters by hand and sent them through the post. Sometimes, it took weeks for a letter to reach its destination. In emergencies, people used telegraphs, which were faster but expensive.

Free Time:

Without television or the internet, free time was spent differently. Families often gathered to share stories, sing songs, or play traditional games. Reading books or listening to the radio were common forms of entertainment. Outdoor activities like picnics and community festivals also brought people together.

Transport:

Traveling in the past was slower. People mostly walked, rode bicycles, or used horse-drawn carriages. Trains and ships were the fastest forms of transport, but they were not always affordable for everyone. Cars and planes became popular only in the 20th century.

Family and Community Life: FB chính chủ: Riêng Một Góc Trời

IV. Read the following brochure. Decide whether the statements from 23 to 26 are True or False and choose the correct answer (A, B, C or D) to complete the statements in the questions 27 and 28. (1.5 pts)

Life in the Past

Life in the past was very different from modern times. People lived without the conveniences we take for granted today, such as electricity, cars, and smartphones. Families were often larger, and people worked hard to support themselves through farming, crafts, or small businesses.

Daily Life

In the past, people usually started their day early. They depended on natural sunlight because there were no electric lights. At night, oil lamps or candles were used for light. Many families cooked food over an open fire, which required time and effort to prepare. Meals were simple, often made from locally grown vegetables, grains, and occasionally meat.

Communication and Entertainment

Communication was slow and limited. Letters were the main way to stay in touch with friends and family, and it could take weeks or even months to receive a reply. For entertainment, people often told stories, sang songs, or played traditional games. Communities gathered during festivals or celebrations to enjoy music, dancing, and local performances.

Education and Work

Education was not accessible to everyone. Only a few children attended school, especially in rural areas where they had to help their families with chores or farming. Jobs required physical labor, and people worked long hours to meet their basic needs.

Transportation

Traveling was challenging and time-consuming. Most people walked or used horses and carts. Roads were not well-developed, making long-distance travel difficult. It was common for people to stay within their villages or towns unless they had an important reason to travel.

Healthcare and Medicine

Healthcare was not advanced. Many diseases could not be treated, and people relied on traditional remedies. Doctors were rare, and hospitals were often far away. This made life expectancy much shorter than today. While life in the past was harder in many ways, people appreciated simple joys and valued close relationships with family and friends. Understanding the challenges they faced helps us appreciate the conveniences of modern life.

A Healthy Environment for a Better Life FB chính chủ: Riêng Một Góc Trời

Living in a clean and green environment is essential for our well-being. The environment affects our physical health, mental health, and overall quality of life. Understanding how to protect and improve our living environment is the first step toward a sustainable future.

1. Why is a Good Living Environment Important?

A good living environment includes clean air, safe drinking water, and green spaces. These factors reduce stress, improve physical fitness, and encourage a happier lifestyle. Polluted environments, on the other hand, can cause respiratory illnesses, allergies, and even depression.

2. How Can We Protect Our Living Environment?

There are simple ways we can all contribute:

- Reduce waste by recycling and reusing items.
- Save energy by switching off lights and appliances when not in use.
- Avoid using single-use plastics.
- Plant more trees and care for green spaces in your community.
- Use public transportation, walk, or cycle instead of driving.

3. The Role of the Community

Communities play a key role in maintaining a healthy environment. Organizing clean-up events, promoting eco-friendly habits, and raising awareness about environmental issues are great ways to start. Working together makes it easier to tackle problems such as littering and air pollution.

4. The Impact of Technology

Technology can both harm and help the environment. Factories and vehicles release harmful emissions, but renewable energy sources like solar and wind power offer clean alternatives. Using energy-efficient appliances and supporting green technology is essential for reducing the environmental footprint.

5. Future Goals for a Greener World

Governments, organizations, and individuals must work together to achieve long-term goals:

- Reducing carbon emissions by 50% in the next 20 years.
- Protecting endangered wildlife.
- Ensuring access to clean water for all.

23. A polluted environment can cause health problems such as allergies.
24. Walking and cycling are discouraged as they are harmful to the environment.
25. Communities can help protect the environment by organizing clean-up events.
26. The brochure suggests avoiding the use of single-use plastics.
27. According to this brochure, how can individuals help the environment?
- A. By using more single-use plastics. B. By recycling and saving energy.
- C. By ignoring environmental problems. D. By cutting down trees in green spaces.
28. All of the following statements are mentioned in the brochure EXCEPT
- A. Renewable energy can help reduce harmful emissions.
- B. Governments are responsible for all environmental problems.
- C. Communities play an important role in protecting the environment.
- D. A clean environment improves physical and mental health.

WELCOME TO A BETTER LIVING ENVIRONMENT

Are you looking for ways to make your living space cleaner, greener, and more comfortable? Here are some simple and practical tips to improve your living environment.

1. Keep Your Home Clean: A clean house not only looks better but also promotes good health. Regularly dust furniture, vacuum the floor, and take out the trash to prevent bad smells and pests.
2. Reduce Plastic Use: Use cloth bags, glass bottles, and reusable containers. Avoiding single-use plastics can help protect the environment and reduce pollution.
3. Save Energy: Turn off lights and unplug devices when they are not in use. Switching to energy-efficient appliances can also lower your electricity bill.
4. Grow Plants: Indoor plants make your space feel fresh and provide oxygen. Outdoor gardening, even in a small area, can improve the air quality around your home.
5. Recycle and Reuse: Separate your waste into recyclable, organic, and non-recyclable materials. Recycling reduces waste and helps save natural resources.

6. Use Natural Light: Open your curtains during the day to let sunlight brighten your home. This can save energy and create a cheerful atmosphere.
7. Avoid Noise Pollution: Keep your home peaceful by using thick curtains and carpets to reduce noise. Respect your neighbors by keeping music or TV volume low.
8. Conserve Water: Fix leaks immediately and use water-saving devices. Simple habits like turning off the tap while brushing your teeth can make a big difference.

Dear Sylvie,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing to share some thoughts about career choices, as we've recently discussed this topic in class. Choosing a career is one of the most important decisions we make in life. It requires careful planning, self-understanding, and a good amount of (17)

First, we need to identify our strengths and interests. Not everyone is good at the same things. Some people are good at working with their hands, while others excel (18) solving problems. Recognizing what we enjoy doing is the key to finding a fulfilling job.

Additionally, it's important to think about how much time and effort we are willing to invest in our education or training. Certain careers demand a large (19) of preparation, while others don't require much at all.

Another thing to consider is the working environment. Some people thrive in a fast-paced, competitive setting, while others prefer a calm and (20) one. It's also worth asking ourselves whether we want to work indoors or outdoors, as this can influence our job satisfaction.

Lastly, we should reflect on the job's impact on our personal lives. A career with a high salary may seem appealing, but if it causes constant stress, it might not be the best choice for everyone. A balanced and (21) job can bring more happiness in the long run.

I hope these tips help you as you think about your future career. Let me know what you think, and share your (22) too!

Best regards,

David

HOW TO CREATE A HEALTHY LIVING ENVIRONMENT

A healthy living environment plays a crucial role in improving the quality of life. It is where we feel safe, comfortable, and energized. Here are some tips to help you create a healthier and happier living space.

1. Clean Air, Clean Life

Keep the air in your home fresh by opening windows daily to let in natural ventilation. You can also use air purifiers to reduce dust and allergens.

2. Go Green

Adding plants to your home can improve air quality and create a calming atmosphere. Popular choices include snake plants, aloe vera, and peace lilies.

3. Declutter Regularly

A clutter-free environment reduces stress and helps you focus better. Donate or recycle items you no longer need to keep your home organized.

4. Energy Efficiency

Save energy by turning off lights and electronics when not in use. Use LED bulbs, which last longer and consume less power than traditional ones.

5. Choose Non-Toxic Products

Avoid using harsh chemicals for cleaning. Look for eco-friendly or natural alternatives to keep your home safe for both you and the environment.

6. Create a Relaxing Space

Dedicate a corner of your home to relaxation. Comfortable seating, soft lighting, and your favorite books or music can help you unwind after a busy day.

7. Keep Noise Levels Down

Soundproof your home if possible, or use noise-canceling curtains and rugs to reduce outside noise. A quiet space can significantly boost your mental health.

8. Be Mindful of Waste

Reduce, reuse, and recycle! Compost food scraps, avoid single-use plastics, and sort your trash correctly. This not only helps the environment but also makes your living space cleaner.

By making small changes in your daily habits, you can turn your living space into a sanctuary of health and happiness. Remember, a healthy environment leads to a healthier you!

DISCOVER THE SECRETS TO A HEALTHIER YOU!

Living a healthy life doesn't have to be complicated. By making small but meaningful changes in your daily habits, you can enjoy a longer, happier, and more energetic life. Here are some tips to get you started:

A. Eat Balanced Meals

Your body needs a variety of nutrients to function properly. Make sure your meals include:

- Vegetables and fruits: Eat at least five servings a day.
- Whole grains: Choose brown rice, whole wheat bread, or oatmeal.
- Protein: Add lean meats, eggs, beans, or nuts to your diet.

Avoid too much sugar, salt, and unhealthy fats. Remember, what you eat today will shape your health tomorrow.

2. Stay Active Every Day

Exercise is essential for both your body and mind. Aim for at least 30 minutes of physical activity every day.

This can include:

- Walking or jogging.
- Riding a bike.
- Playing sports or dancing.

Regular exercise helps you maintain a healthy weight, reduces stress, and improves your mood.

3. Get Enough Sleep

Sleep is when your body recovers and grows stronger. Teens need about 8 -10 hours of sleep each night. To sleep better:

- Go to bed and wake up at the same time every day.
- Avoid screens (like phones or TVs) an hour before bedtime.

Not enough sleep can affect your focus and make you feel tired all day.

B. Stay Hydrated

Water is vital for your health. Drink 6–8 glasses of water daily to keep your body hydrated. Avoid sugary drinks like soda.

C. Manage Stress Positively

Life can be stressful, but how you handle it matters. Try these techniques:

- Practice deep breathing or meditation.
- Talk to someone you trust if you feel overwhelmed.
- Spend time doing things you enjoy.

Remember, a healthy mind is as important as a healthy body.

Take the First Step Today!

Healthy living starts with small decisions. Choose one tip and start today – you'll notice the difference!

Dear David,

How are you? I hope you are feeling well. Last week, I had a very interesting experience that I want to share with you. I went to a beautiful park with my family. It was amazing to see how nature can bring so much peace to the heart. I could (17) some fresh air and feel the sun on my skin.

There were quite (18) people at the park, but it still felt calm and relaxing. My sister and I sat (19) the riverbank, listening to the sound of the water. It made me realize how important it is to take a break and enjoy life.

The best part of the day was when we saw a group of ducks swimming together. My little brother was so excited that he even tried to feed them with some bread. It was such a/an (20) moment. Everyone was laughing and having a good time.

By the time we left, I felt (21) but happy. The day gave me a fresh perspective on how simple things can bring so much joy. I think we should plan a visit together sometime soon. It would be (22) to share such moments with you.

Write back soon and let me know what you think.

Best wishes,

A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITIES AND CHALLENGES

Urban life offers a fast-paced, exciting lifestyle full of opportunities and conveniences. Cities are bustling with activity, from the early morning rush to late-night entertainment. This dynamic environment attracts millions of people every year, hoping to build better lives.

Advantages of Urban Life:

1. Job Opportunities: Cities are hubs of economic activity, offering diverse employment options in fields like technology, education, healthcare, and entertainment.
2. Access to Services: Urban areas provide better healthcare, education, and public services compared to rural areas. Hospitals and schools are more advanced, ensuring quality care and learning.
3. Transportation: Public transport systems such as buses, subways, and trains make getting around the city easier and faster.
4. Cultural Diversity: Cities are melting pots of culture. Festivals, museums, and theaters offer enriching experiences for residents and visitors alike.
5. Shopping and Dining: From luxury malls to local markets, and fine dining to street food, cities cater to every taste and budget.

Challenges of Urban Life:

1. Cost of Living: Living in a city can be expensive, with high housing prices and daily expenses.
2. Pollution and Noise: Urban areas often face problems like air pollution, water contamination, and constant noise, which can affect health and well-being.
3. Crowding and Traffic: Overpopulation in cities leads to traffic congestion and crowded public spaces, making daily life stressful for some.
4. Social Issues: Despite the opportunities, some city dwellers face problems such as unemployment, homelessness, and inequality.

Urban life is not for everyone, but for those who thrive in a fast-paced environment, it offers countless possibilities. Balancing the advantages and challenges is key to enjoying city living.

DISCOVER THE VIBRANCY OF URBAN LIFE

Urban areas are bustling with activity, offering a dynamic and exciting lifestyle for millions of people. Living in a city means being surrounded by opportunities for work, education, entertainment, and cultural experiences. Cities are often seen as the heart of economic and social development, attracting individuals from all over the world.

Advantages of Urban Living

One of the greatest advantages of urban life is convenience. Cities have well-developed infrastructure, making it easier to access schools, hospitals, and shopping centers. Public transportation, such as buses, subways, and trains, allows residents to travel quickly and affordably. Moreover, cities are hubs for job opportunities in various fields, including technology, business, and education.

Urban areas also offer a rich cultural life. Residents can enjoy museums, art galleries, theaters, and live music events. Restaurants and cafes serve diverse cuisines, catering to people with different tastes. Parks and recreational spaces provide places for relaxation amidst the fast pace of city life.

Challenges of Urban Living

Despite its many benefits, urban life has its challenges. Traffic congestion is a common problem, especially during rush hours. Pollution, both air and noise, affects the quality of life in many cities. Housing can also be expensive, forcing some residents to live in smaller apartments or in suburban areas.

Another concern is the fast-paced lifestyle. While some people thrive in this environment, others may find it stressful. Balancing work and personal life can be more difficult in a city. Nevertheless, for many, the opportunities and experiences outweigh these challenges.

Conclusion

Urban life is a blend of opportunities and challenges. It is perfect for those who seek excitement, career growth, and cultural diversity. However, it also requires adapting to its fast pace and dealing with occasional inconveniences. Whether you love the city's energy or find comfort in quieter places, urban living is an experience like no other.

JOBS IN THE FUTURE: WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

The world of work is changing quickly. Technology and science are creating new careers, while some traditional jobs are disappearing. To prepare for the future, students need to think about what careers might exist in 10 or 20 years. Here are some of the exciting possibilities:

1. Artificial Intelligence (AI) Specialist
AI is transforming industries like healthcare, education, and transportation. AI specialists design and improve smart systems, such as robots and self-driving cars.
2. Renewable Energy Technician
As the world works to reduce pollution, the demand for clean energy will grow. Renewable energy technicians install and maintain solar panels, wind turbines, and other eco-friendly energy systems.
3. Virtual Reality (VR) Designer
Virtual reality is no longer just for games. It is used in education, medicine, and even tourism. VR designers create virtual environments that help people learn and experience new things.
4. Environmental Scientist
With climate change becoming a global issue, environmental scientists study ways to protect nature and reduce damage caused by humans.
5. Health and Wellness Coach
More people are focusing on their health. Coaches help individuals improve their physical and mental well-being through better diets, exercise plans, and mindfulness techniques.
6. Space Tour Guide
With companies like SpaceX working on space travel, space tourism might become a reality. Tour guides will explain the wonders of space to travelers.

What Skills Will You Need?

1. Problem-solving and critical thinking.
2. Creativity and adaptability to new situations.
3. Knowledge of technology, especially AI and coding.

4. Communication skills for teamwork and leadership.

How to Prepare for the Future

1. Take classes in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM).
2. Practice speaking foreign languages, as many jobs will involve working with people from different countries.
3. Stay informed about new technologies and global trends.

The future is full of opportunities! Start preparing now to make your dreams come true.

23. Renewable energy technicians help install and repair eco-friendly energy systems.
24. AI specialists will only work with robots.
25. Health and wellness coaches are not important for the future.
26. Space tourism is already available for everyone.

EXPLORE THE WORLD OF FUTURE CAREERS

As the world continues to change rapidly, so does the job market. Many traditional jobs may no longer exist, while new and exciting opportunities will appear. Here are some examples of careers that experts believe will become important in the future:

1. AI Specialist: With the development of artificial intelligence, AI specialists will create and improve intelligent systems to help businesses and individuals.
2. Green Energy Engineer: As the world focuses on protecting the environment, green energy engineers will design renewable energy systems like solar panels and wind turbines.
3. Virtual Reality Designer: Virtual reality (VR) is not just for gaming. In the future, VR designers will create experiences for education, health care, and entertainment.
4. Personal Data Manager: With so much personal information online, data managers will help people organize and protect their digital identities.
5. Space Tour Guide: As space travel becomes more common, there will be jobs for people to guide tourists visiting the moon or other planets.

Skills You Will Need

To succeed in these future careers, you will need a combination of technical and personal skills:

- Adaptability: The ability to learn new things quickly and adjust to changes.
- Creativity: Thinking outside the box to solve problems and develop new ideas.
- Technical Knowledge: A strong understanding of science, technology, and mathematics.
- Communication Skills: Explaining complex ideas clearly and working well with others.

Why Future Jobs Matter

These jobs will not only provide exciting opportunities but also help solve global challenges. For example:

- Green energy engineers will combat climate change.
- AI specialists will make life easier by automating repetitive tasks.
- Space tour guides will open new possibilities for humanity.

The future job market may seem uncertain, but it is full of potential. Preparing for these changes now will give you an advantage in the years to come.

WELCOME TO “REMEMBERING THE PAST”

History connects us to our roots. It teaches us lessons and reminds us of the courage, creativity, and struggles of those who lived before us. Whether through stories, monuments, or museums, the past remains alive in many forms.

The Importance of Preserving History

Preserving history ensures that future generations understand the culture, traditions, and events that shaped our world. Old photographs, letters, and diaries are like time machines, offering glimpses of the lives of people from long ago. By protecting these treasures, we respect those who came before us.

How to Remember the Past

1. Visit Historical Sites: Explore places like ancient ruins, castles, or landmarks to step back in time.
2. Learn from Museums: Museums display artifacts, paintings, and objects that carry historical significance.
3. Talk to Older Generations: Grandparents and elders often share firsthand stories about events that textbooks don't cover.
4. Participate in Cultural Events: Festivals, traditional dances, or food tastings help us connect with our ancestors' way of life.

Benefits of Remembering the Past FB chính chủ: Riêng Một Góc Trời

- Appreciate Progress: By understanding the past, we see how far humanity has come in science, rights, and freedom.
- Feel a Sense of Belonging: Connecting with one's heritage fosters pride and identity.

Modern Tools for Remembering

Technology helps us access history more easily:

- Watch documentaries on streaming platforms.
- Visit virtual museum tours.
- Research family trees online.
- Share memories through blogs or social media.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO REMEMBER THE PAST?

The past is more than just old stories - it is a treasure of lessons and inspiration. By understanding history, we can learn from the mistakes and successes of those before us. Remembering the past helps us appreciate the present and build a better future.

How do we remember the past?

1. Historical Sites: Visiting historical places connects us to events that shaped the world. For example, museums and ancient landmarks tell the stories of cultures and civilizations.
2. Books and Films: Reading books or watching movies about history is another way to learn. These mediums make history alive and engaging.
3. Family Stories: Families often share traditions or stories about their ancestors. These stories help us understand where we come from.

The Role of Monuments and Memorials

Monuments are built to honor important people or events. For instance, war memorials remind us of the sacrifices made for peace and freedom. They are symbols of respect and reflection.

Learning from the Past

History teaches valuable lessons. If we ignore it, we might repeat the same mistakes. For example, studying past wars shows us the importance of resolving conflicts peacefully.

Your Role in Preserving the Past

Young people can help preserve history by:

- Taking care of historical artifacts.
- Learning and sharing historical knowledge.
- Visiting historical sites to understand their significance.

By remembering the past, we become wiser and more compassionate. History connects us and teaches us how to create a better tomorrow.

23. Historical sites connect us to the events that shaped the world.
24. Watching movies is not a good way to remember the past.
25. War memorials symbolize peace and reflection.
26. Young people have no role in preserving history.
27. According to this brochure,
 A. Visiting historical sites is unnecessary.
 B. Monuments only honor famous individuals.
 C. Remembering the past helps us build a better future.
 D. Family stories are not related to history.
28. All of the following statements are mentioned in the brochure EXCEPT
 A. War memorials remind us of sacrifices. B. Historical books make learning engaging.
 C. Young people should ignore old artifacts. D. Family traditions connect us to our ancestors.

Dear Sylvie,

I hope this email finds you well. I want to share some thoughts about jobs in the future. As technology develops rapidly, many new jobs will be created, and some traditional ones may disappear. For example, people will need to (17) managing artificial intelligence (AI). AI will play an important role in our lives and help us do things faster and more efficiently.

However, not (18) people will enjoy this change. Some may lose their jobs because of automation, and they will need to learn new skills to adapt.

I believe that working (19) teams will also be more important than ever. Collaboration will allow people to share ideas and solve problems together.

One exciting future job might be related to space exploration. As technology improves, we may need more (20) to explore other planets. This is both a challenging and exciting field!

Moreover, future jobs will require people to be more (21) because machines can do repetitive tasks.

Lastly, people will also need to stay (22) when facing changes in the job market. This attitude will help them succeed.

What do you think about jobs in the future? I look forward to hearing your ideas!

Best wishes,
David

VIETNAMESE LIFESTYLE: A JOURNEY THROUGH TIME

Vietnamese culture and lifestyle have transformed significantly over the years, reflecting the nation's resilience and adaptability. Let's take a closer look at how life in Vietnam has evolved from the past to the present.

Life in the Past

1. Family Structure: In the past, Vietnamese families were often large, with three or four generations living under one roof. Grandparents, parents, and children shared the same household, fostering a sense of unity and respect.
2. Education: Education opportunities were limited. Most children, especially in rural areas, did not go to school and instead helped their families with farming or household chores.
3. Traditional Attire: The "áo dài" was the daily wear for both men and women. People also favored simple, handmade clothing, usually made of cotton or silk.
4. Transportation: Walking and bicycles were the most common means of transport. Only wealthy families could afford buffalo carts or wooden boats.
5. Leisure Activities: Entertainment was simple and community-based, such as folk singing, traditional games, and festivals. Television and modern amusements were unheard of.

Life Today

6. Family Structure: Modern families tend to be smaller, with parents and children living independently. Young adults often move to cities for education or work.
7. Education: Education is now a top priority, with nearly all children attending school. Many students aim to study abroad to improve their future opportunities.
8. Fashion: Although the "áo dài" remains a cultural symbol, modern clothing styles influenced by global fashion trends dominate everyday life.
9. Transportation: Motorbikes and cars have replaced bicycles as the most popular vehicles. Urban areas also have buses and growing metro systems.
10. Leisure Activities: Entertainment has become more diverse, including watching movies, shopping at malls, and using social media. Modern technology plays a big role in daily recreation.

Similarities

11. Despite these changes, certain values remain unchanged. Respect for elders, family gatherings during festivals, and a love for traditional foods are still deeply rooted in Vietnamese culture.
12. Festivals such as Tet (Lunar New Year) continue to bring families together, maintaining the spirit of unity and tradition.

A Look into the Future

13. With globalization and rapid development, Vietnamese lifestyle is expected to become even more modern while preserving its cultural identity.
14. The younger generation is finding ways to balance tradition and modernity, ensuring that cultural values are not forgotten.
23. In the past, most children in rural areas attended school.
24. Modern Vietnamese families are typically smaller than in the past.

VIETNAMESE LIFESTYLE: THEN AND NOW

Vietnam is a country with a rich history and culture that has evolved significantly over time. Understanding the differences between the past and present helps us appreciate Vietnam's journey and how its people adapt to change while preserving traditions.

Lifestyle in the Past FB chính chủ: Riêng Một Góc Trời

In the past, most Vietnamese people lived in rural areas, where agriculture played a key role. Families were large and usually lived in traditional houses made of bamboo and wood. The daily routine was centered around farming, with men working in the fields and women taking care of household chores. People relied on bicycles or walked to travel. Communication was slow, often depending on letters that took days or weeks to arrive. Entertainment was simple, such as folk games, storytelling, and festivals.

Lifestyle Today

Today, life in Vietnam has changed dramatically. Many people have moved to cities, where they work in offices or factories. Modern technology has become an essential part of daily life. Houses are now made of concrete, and apartments are common in urban areas. People use motorbikes, cars, and public transportation to travel quickly. Communication is instant, thanks to mobile phones and the Internet. Entertainment options include movies, video games, and social media, which reflect the influence of global trends. However, many traditional values, such as respect for family and ancestors, remain strong.

Preserving Traditions

Although modern life is fast-paced, the Vietnamese still cherish their traditions. Tet (Lunar New Year) is celebrated nationwide, with families gathering to honor their ancestors. Ao dai, the traditional Vietnamese dress, is still worn on special occasions. Folk music and dances are performed during festivals, connecting the younger generation to their roots.

Conclusion

The Vietnamese lifestyle, past and present, reflects a unique blend of tradition and modernity. While technology and urbanization have brought convenience, cultural values continue to play an important role in the lives of Vietnamese people.

WORLD ENGLISHES – THE GLOBAL LANGUAGE

Did you know that English is spoken by over 1.5 billion people worldwide? However, not everyone speaks English the same way. There are many varieties of English, often called “World Englishes,” which reflect different cultures, histories, and local influences.

What are World Englishes? FB chính chủ: Riêng Một Góc Trời

World Englishes refer to the different types of English spoken in countries where English is used as a first language, second language, or as an official language. For example:

- In the United States and the UK, people speak English as a native language.
- In countries like India and Singapore, English is a second language but an important one for communication.
- In many places, such as Nigeria and the Philippines, English is used in government, education, and media.

Why do World Englishes exist?

World Englishes exist because English has adapted to different cultural and social contexts. When people in a country adopt English, they mix it with their local languages and traditions. This creates unique forms of English, which may include new words, pronunciations, or even grammar rules.

Examples of World Englishes

1. Indian English: Words like "prepone" (to schedule earlier) or "godown" (warehouse) are common.
2. Singlish (Singapore English): Phrases like “Can lah!” or “How come you never tell me?” show the influence of Chinese and Malay.
3. Australian English: Words like “mate” (friend) and “barbie” (barbecue) reflect Australian culture.

Why are World Englishes important?

World Englishes show that English is a dynamic, evolving language. They allow people to express their identity and culture while communicating with others around the world. Learning about these varieties helps us understand and respect other cultures.

Challenges with World Englishes

Even though World Englishes make English richer, they can sometimes cause misunderstandings. For example, an Australian might say, “I’ll ring you,” meaning “I’ll call you,” but a non-native speaker may not understand.

Conclusion

World Englishes are proof of how English connects people globally while also celebrating cultural diversity. Whether it’s American, British, Indian, or Singaporean English, all forms are valid and valuable. Remember, there’s no single “correct” English - just different ways of using a global language.

WHAT ARE WORLD ENGLISHES?

English is spoken by millions of people around the globe, but did you know that English comes in many different forms? These variations are called "World Englishes." They include not only British and American English but also Indian English, Singaporean English, and many others.

Why are there so many Englishes?

As English spread to different parts of the world, it blended with local languages and cultures. Over time, this created unique accents, vocabulary, and grammar rules. For example, in Indian English, people often use phrases like "Please do the needful," which may not be common in other types of English.

Examples of World Englishes

- British English: Spoken in the UK, it uses words like "lorry" (truck) and "flat" (apartment).
- American English: Common in the US, it uses "elevator" instead of "lift" and "apartment" instead of "flat."
- Singaporean English (Singlish): A mix of English, Malay, Chinese, and Tamil. Phrases like "Can lah!" mean "Yes, it's possible!"
- Australian English: Known for its unique slang, like "arvo" (afternoon) or "barbie" (barbecue).

The Importance of World Englishes

Understanding World Englishes is important in our globalized world. It helps people communicate more effectively and respect cultural differences. For instance, a British person visiting Singapore might learn to understand Singlish, while an American working in India might adapt to Indian English.

How can you learn about World Englishes?

You can explore World Englishes by:

- Watching movies or TV shows from different countries.
- Reading books written in various Englishes.
- Talking to people from other cultures.
