Healthy living is crucial for teenagers as it helps them grow, develop, and build habits that will last a lifetime. A balanced diet is the foundation of healthy living. Teens should eat plenty of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and lean proteins while avoiding too much junk food and sugary drinks. Regular physical activity is equally important, with at least 60 minutes of exercise recommended daily. This can include anything from sports like basketball or soccer to simple activities like walking or cycling.

In addition to diet and exercise, sleep plays a key role in maintaining health. Teenagers need about 8 to 10 hours of sleep each night to support their physical and mental growth. Lack of sleep can lead to poor concentration, irritability, and an increased risk of illness. Managing stress is another important factor. With the pressure of school, friends, and social media, teens may feel overwhelmed. Practising mindfulness, taking breaks, and talking to someone they trust can help them manage stress more effectively.

By adopting these healthy habits - eating well, staying active, sleeping enough, and managing stress - teens can improve their overall well-being and set the stage for a healthy adult life.

Question 31. What is the main idea of the passage?

- A. Teenagers need to exercise for 60 minutes every day.
