People usually think of (1) _____ news as bad because it's not true, but on one day of the year – 1 April – people enjoy seeing it in newspapers and (2) _____. This day is known as April Fools' Day. It's a day when people write things that aren't true to play a joke on other people. For example, a blogger shares some amazing, but completely false, news in a blog (3) _____. Or a (4) writes a story about a strange event that didn't actually happen. Look in newspapers or on news websites on 1 April, and you'll see stories under (5) _____ like Pet cat talks! I like to look through the news on this day and decide which stories I think are false. I might even do some quick research to (6) _____ out if I'm right. Of course, sometimes I see a story which a newspaper or news site has (7) _____ that doesn't seem real, but the (8) _____ of the article is actually true. That's because the world is full of very strange but true stories.
