Tien's parents both work in a shop. On weekdays, they leave home early. Before school, Tien makes his bed and feeds the cat. His younger sister, Nga, puts the breakfast dishes in the kitchen. They do these jobs without waiting for their parents to ask.

On Saturdays, the family prepares lunch together. Their father shows Tien how to cut vegetables safely. Nga washes them and puts them in a bowl. Their mother cooks the rice. Each person has a small job.

Last Saturday, their mother was busy at the shop, so the others prepared lunch without her. The meal was ready when she came home. She smiled and thanked them. Tien felt proud because he could help.

After lunch, everyone clears the table. Their parents say that sharing chores teaches children useful skills. Tien agrees. He enjoys the time in the kitchen because the family can work and talk together.

Read the passage and choose the best answer A, B, C or D for each question from 33 to 40.

There is a sharing shelf in Bao's neighbourhood. People leave toys they no longer use, and other families borrow them. The shelf stands inside a small community room. A volunteer opens the room on Saturday afternoons.

Bao helps collect the toys. He checks that they are clean and safe. His friend Huy writes a number on each one. They put them in boxes so younger children can find what they want.

Families write their names before taking a toy home. They return it after two weeks so another child can use it. This simple rule keeps the shelf useful. Broken toys are repaired when possible.

Bao likes the idea because families do not need to buy every toy new. Children also learn to look after things that belong to other people. The room is small, but many families enjoy visiting it.
