The genius

Leonardo da Vinci was one of the greatest painters, architects, and thinkers in his era. His works have influenced not only other artists and painters, but also people working in scientific fields.

He was born in 1452 in a small town near Vinci, Italy, where his surname comes from. Leonardo loved nature and spent a lot of time drawing pictures of animals and plants. He received little formal education, but his uncle and father soon discovered his talent, so they decided to send him to a workshop in Florence to apprentice with the master artist Verrocchio. Da Vinci not only improved his skills in drawing, painting, and sculpting, but he also picked up knowledge and technical skills in other areas including mechanics, carpentry, metalwork, and architecture.

In 1472, Leonardo qualified as a master artist and opened his own workshop. However, he still continued to work together with Verrocchio for the next five years. After that, he started working independently and completed a painting for the Duke of Milan. His work made a huge impression on the Duke who decided to offer him a position in his court. While in Milan, Da Vinci was invited to design innovative buildings, machines, and weapons. He would draw up plans for several inventions of the future such as tanks, submarines, and flying machines. He was also skilled at drawing detailed sketches of the human body. He left behind several notebooks filled with diagrams, drawings, observations, and notes of his studies, ideas, and inventions.

Unfortunately, his interests were so broad that he often changed his focus to a new project and rarely finished the works he had started. The Last Supper and Mona Lisa were two of the masterpieces he could finish during his lifetime. In 1495, he started The Last Supper, which took him nearly three years to complete. In 1503, he began painting the Mona Lisa and worked on it from time to time over several years until his death.

Da Vinci died in 1519, at the age of 67, but he is still considered as one of the greatest geniuses of all time. His paintings changed the world of art, and many inventions were carried out based on his ideas and sketches. His greatness lies in the depth and diversity of his knowledge, and 500 years after his death, his genius shines as bright as ever.

LIVING IN A MULTICULTURAL WORLD

In today's globalized society, we live in a multicultural world where different cultures, traditions, and languages mix and interact. This phenomenon is most apparent in cities, where people from diverse backgrounds coexist, bringing their unique customs, values, and lifestyles. Living in such a world has both advantages and challenges. On one hand, multiculturalism fosters open-mindedness, tolerance, and creativity. It allows people to experience and appreciate different ways of life, expanding their perspectives. On the other hand, it can lead to misunderstandings, prejudice, and even conflict if people are not open to understanding others' differences.

One significant benefit of multiculturalism is the opportunity for cultural exchange. When people from different backgrounds share their traditions, it leads to a richer and more diverse community. For instance, in a multicultural city, one can enjoy a variety of cuisines, attend different cultural festivals, and learn new languages. This exchange promotes mutual respect and understanding among people, which is crucial for building a harmonious society.

However, there are also potential downsides. Sometimes, cultural differences can create barriers to communication, and people might struggle to integrate into a society that is different from their own. This can lead to the formation of ethnic enclaves, where people from the same cultural background isolate themselves, limiting interaction with the broader community. Additionally, there can be instances of discrimination and xenophobia, where certain groups are treated unfairly because of their culture or ethnicity.

To truly benefit from a multicultural world, it is essential to encourage inclusivity and understanding. Governments, educational institutions, and individuals must work together to create environments that promote cultural awareness and respect. This includes educational programs that teach about different cultures, as well as policies that address discrimination and promote equality.

Question 31. Where would the following sentence best fit in the passage?

"These interactions can enrich the local culture, making it more vibrant and dynamic."

Question 34. According to the passage, what is one benefit of living in a multicultural society?

- A. Limited job opportunities
- B. Higher rates of prejudice
- C. Increased open-mindedness and tolerance
- D. Better integration of people from the same background

Question 35. What is the main idea of the passage?

- A. A multicultural world provides opportunities for cultural exchange but also has challenges that need to be addressed.
- B. Multiculturalism in cities leads to more conflicts than benefits.
- C. People from different backgrounds should not mix to avoid misunderstandings.
- D. Multicultural societies only exist in urban areas.

Question 36. Which of the following best paraphrases the sentence "Living in such a world has both advantages and challenges." from paragraph 1?

- A. A multicultural society has mostly benefits.
- B. Advantages of a multicultural world outweigh the challenges.
- C. Living in a multicultural society leads to many problems.
- D. There are both positive and negative aspects to living in a diverse society.

Question 37. What is the opposite of "inclusivity" as used in the last paragraph?

- C. generosity
- D. acceptance

Question 38. Which of the following is NOT mentioned as a challenge of multiculturalism?

- A. Communication barriers
- B. Formation of ethnic enclaves
- C. Unemployment
- D. Discrimination

Question 39. What can be inferred about the role of education in a multicultural society?

- A. It is unnecessary to teach about other cultures.
- B. Educational programs can help promote understanding and inclusivity.
- C. Schools should focus solely on local culture.
- D. Learning about different cultures can lead to more conflicts.

Question 40. Which of the following best summarizes the passage?

Code: 1

- A. Multiculturalism in modern society is a cause of many problems and should be avoided.
B. Living in a multicultural world means accepting cultural isolation as a solution to integration issues.
C. A multicultural world is an inevitable result of globalization and requires people to avoid differences.
