2.2. Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

Past explorers have made vast contributions to our knowledge of the world today. They braved the oceans to discover the world and to bring their goods to other countries to trade.

Many explorers had to overcome their fear of the unknown to travel around the world on their sailing ships. Submitting themselves to unpredictable weather conditions, each explorer either traveled further than his predecessor or tried to find a different route to already discovered countries. For example, Vasco Da Gama, a Portuguese explorer, established a sea route from Europe to India. He had extended the sea route that Bartolomeu Dias had already done when he latter sailed around the Cape of Good Hope in southern Africa.

More importantly, explorers first closed the gap between the east and the west by trading their local goods with foreign ones. India was known for its spices such as nutmeg and cinnamon while China was known for its silk. A part of the east was brought to the west when western gourmets developed a taste for eastern spices in their food. People in the east dressed in clothes that were previously only worn in the west. Without the explorers, many of us would still be living in our own enclave with little knowledge of the vast world and what other foreign countries have to offer us.

VII. Read the passage, and then answer the questions.

Many people who work in London prefer to live outside it, and to go to their offices, factories or schools everyday by train, car or bus, even though this means they have to get up earlier in the morning and come home later in the evening.

One advantage of living outside London is that houses are cheaper. Even a small flat in London without a garden costs quite a lot to rent. With the same money, one can get a little house in the country with a garden of one's own.

Then, in the country one can rest from the noise and hurry of the town. Although one has to get up earlier and spend more time in trains or buses, one can sleep better at night, and during weekends. In summer evenings one enjoy the fresh, clean air of the country. If one likes gardens, one can spend one's free time digging, planting, watering and doing the hundred and one other jobs which are needed in a garden.

36. What do many people who work in London prefer?

37. What is one advantage of living outside London?

Computing is now at the same stage as printing was when the first printing presses were used. Before printing presses were invented, only rich people like kings and dukes could afford to buy books. Often these people were unable to read and hadn't enough time to learn. In any case, the books were so big that it was difficult for anyone to relax with a book as we do today. They wanted booked because they were expensive and there was something magical about them. Only a few people were able to write, and it took an extremely long time to write a book. Monks and other people who could write said ordinary people could not learn to read.

The position with computers is very similar today. A few years ago, computers were very large and expensive. Business managers and rich people ordered them but they didn't know how to use them.

In many countries, however, the situation has now completely changed. Lots of people not only own microcomputer but also know how to use them.

Questions:

21) What happened before printing presses were invented?

Colour

The first scientist to study colour was Sir Isaac Newton. He was an English scientist who lived from 1642 to 1727. Newton was the first person to divide white light into different colours. In 1861 another English scientist, James Clerk Maxwell, showed that he could make other colours by mixing the primary colours - red, blue and yellow - in different ways. These other colours are called secondary and tertiary colours.

We make secondary colours by mixing two primary colours together. For example, red and yellow become orange, yellow and blue become green, and blue and red become violet. We make tertiary colours by mixing one primary colour with one secondary colour.

We can make a room look bigger or smaller, hotter or colder by using colour. Green and blue are cold colours. They can also make a room look bigger. Red, orange and yellow are hot colours. They can make a room look smaller.

HAPPY FAMILY?

My house must be the 21 in the neighbourhood. We are always falling out about what we are going to watch on the television. My sister likes to see her favourite singers and actors talking about themselves so she prefers watching 22 shows. My brother doesn't like anything serious in life. He just wants to laugh all the time so he watches 23 . My parents believe that TV should be educational so they say that we should watch documentaries. From the moment the television is turned on, everybody starts shouting. It's impossible to 24 a solution we're all happy with. Sometimes, it makes me feel so depressed! However for the past month, this has all changed. This is because the whole family has been watching the holiday programmes. Now we are arguing about which holiday 25 we want to visit! We can't agree on anything. How can the same family have so many different personalities?

Read the passage and answer the questions.

The shortcut

“Follow me. I know a shortcut,” Danny said.

Carl held back. “I don’t think that’s a good idea,” he said. He was used to his brother looking for easy ways to do things. Danny slept on the floor so he didn’t have to make his bed. And now he had found a shortcut from the store to their grandmother’s house.

They were visiting for the Thanksgiving weekend. The block around her house was familiar. It was just four blocks from the store, with a turn on one corner. Between the store and the house was a junkyard. It was a dirty place with old cars and sofas piled in heaps. There was a fence around it. But nobody seemed to own it or to care about it.

“Come on!” Danny said. “Don’t be chicken!” Carl hated it when he called him a chicken. But he felt he had to keep an eye on his brother. It’s what he had been doing his whole life, even though Danny was a year older.

They pushed aside a broken part of the fence and walked through the mud. Danny hopped onto the springs of a discarded bed. His foot got stuck. He had to take off his shoe to free it. Then he saw something interesting on the ground. It looked like a silver dollar, but it turned out to be just a bottle cap. Danny tossed a flat football to Carl. He filled his pockets with all sorts of finds. A piece of blue glass. A soggy picture of a dog. Four pennies. While Danny studied the ground, Carl was looking at the sky. “It’s getting late,” he said. Finally, they reached the other side. There, the fence was strong and high. There was no way to climb over it. So, they had to run-fast-back to where they’d started.

VI. Read the text about an unusual school then do the tasks. (4 pts)

Summerhill is a boarding school in south-east England. It's a school with a difference because the teachers don't make the rules - the students make them.

Breakfast is from 8.00 until 9.00 and lessons start at 9.30. Holly is a student here - she likes lessons. She is studying many subjects. Ivan is a student here, too. He isn't interested in lessons and he can play all day if he wants.

At 12.30 it's lunchtime, and the students and teachers eat together. There are three choices of meal: one with meat, a vegetarian option and a salad bar, too.

At 1.45 there's a class meeting. The students and teachers talk about problems and they can change school rules in this meeting. Then there are free-time activities: orchestra practice, drama group or sport.

Ivan goes shopping in town. Holly plays the violin with the orchestra. At 5.30 it's dinner time. After dinner students chat and do homework. Younger children go to bed before 9.30, but older children can go to bed when they want.

So that's a day Summerhill. Do you think school is better when the students make the rules?

The search for alternative sources of energy has led in various directions. Many communities are burning garbage and other biological waste products to produce electricity. Converting waste products to gases or oil is also an efficient way to dispose of waste.

Experimental work is being done to derive synthetic fuels from coal, oil shale and coal tars. But to date, that process has proven expensive. Other experiments are underway to harness - power with giant windmills. Geothermal power, heat from the earth, is also being tested.

Some experts expect utility companies to revive hydroelectric power derived from streams and rivers. Fifty years ago hydroelectric power provided one third of the electricity used in the United States, but today it supplies only four percent. The oceans are another potential source of energy. Scientists are studying ways to convert the energy of ocean currents, tides, and waves to electricity. Experiments are also underway to make use of the temperature differences in ocean water to produce energy.

Part 5: read the passage and answer the following questions by choosing A, B, C or D.

Aside from just eating food to get energy, you also eat to get vitamins and minerals. Vitamins and minerals don't provide energy; they help your body run properly. Each vitamin or mineral helps your body in different ways.

The vitamins are: A, B, C, D, E, and K. Vitamin A helps your eyes and immune system. Vitamin B, actually a group of vitamins, helps your body to get the energy out of carbohydrates, fats, and proteins. They also help with growth and making healthy blood. If you see Thiamin, Niacin, Riboflavin, Folic Acid, and B12 on a food label, these are the B vitamins. Vitamin C helps protect your cells, makes healthy fats in your skin, and gives your immune system a boost. Vitamin D helps your body absorb the calcium you need for your bones and teeth. You actually get this one from the sun, too. Vitamin E helps protect your cells. Vitamin K helps your blood and bones.

There are a lot of minerals, but the main ones your body needs are: Calcium, Copper, Iodine, Iron, Magnesium, Phosphorous, Potassium, Selenium, Sodium and Zinc. You won't see all of these on every food label, but you might see a lot of them on your cereal boxes. Minerals generally help your body run correctly. They help your glands, organs, and body work at its best. They support your immune system, help to regulate your body's functions like breathing, growing, your heart rate, and energy production, and do many other things.

It is important to eat a variety of foods to get all of the vitamins and minerals. This includes foods like: vegetables, beans, fruit, grains, proteins, and dairy. Each food gives you a little of what you need. If you don't have a well - rounded diet, you might not be getting all of what you need. Children's vitamins can help, but getting vitamins and minerals from foods is the best way to get essential nutrients.

1. According to writer.....

Question 16: Read and choose the best answer.

Carbohydrates, which are sugars, are an essential part of a healthy diet. They provide the main source of energy for the body, and they also function to flavor and sweeten foods. Carbohydrates range from simple sugars like glucose to complex sugars such as amylose and 5 amylopectin. Nutritionists estimate that carbohydrates should make up about one-fourth to one-fifth of a person's diet. This translates to about 75-100 grams of carbohydrates per day.

A diet that is deficient in carbohydrates can have an adverse effect 10 on a person's health. When the body lacks a sufficient amount of carbohydrates it must then use its protein supplies for energy, a process called gluconeogenesis. This, however, results in a lack of necessary protein, and further health difficulties may occur. A lack of carbohydrates can also lead to ketosis, a build-up of ketones 15 in the body that causes fatigue, lethargy, and bad breath.

1. What is the main idea of this passage?

- A. Carbohydrates prevent a build-up of proteins
- B. Carbohydrates are an expendable part of a good diet.
- C. Carbohydrates are needed for good health.

- D. Carbohydrates can lead to ketosis.
2. According to the passage, what do most nutritionists suggest?
- A. Carbohydrates should be eaten in very small quantities.
 B. Sufficient carbohydrates will prevent gluconeogenesis.
 C. Carbohydrates are simple sugars called glucose.
 D. Carbohydrates should make up about a quarter of a person's daily diet.
3. Which of the following do carbohydrates NOT do? A. cause gluconeogenesis
 B. prevent ketosis
 C. provide energy for the body
 D. flavor and sweeten food
4. What does the word "this" refer to ?
 A. having an insufficient amount of protein
 B. using protein supplies for energy
 C. converting carbohydrates to energy
 D. having a deficiency in carbohydrates
5. According to the passage, which of the following does NOT describe carbohydrates?
 A. an energy source
 B. a protein supply
 C. a range of sugars
 D. a necessity

GETTING BACK TO NATURE

The Little Morocco is a beautiful building. We used stone and mud to build the hotel. There are skylights – windows in the roof to let light in – so we save electricity. The skylights give us light in the day, so we don't use electric lights. We don't use chemicals to clean the rooms because we don't want to damage the environment.

You can walk in the mountains near the hotel and see lots of local wildlife. Enjoy a boat trip on the lake and see the amazing waterfalls, or visit the beautiful caves.

Read the following passage and choose the best answer for each of the following questions.

The small girl

Sarah Small was the smallest girl in second grade. She could not reach the water fountain. She felt very sad. "Wait and see," said Mother. "It's good to be small."

One day, Sarah and her friends were playing soccer. Sarah was good at soccer. She was so small that she could run through tall people's legs. She had just kicked the ball when she saw something green and white.

There was a five-dollar bill on the other side of the fence, beside a small hole. Sarah's friends were too big to fit through the hole to reach it. But Sarah got down on her hands and knees and slipped through. She picked up the bill from off the ground. Then she told her friends she would buy them all ice cream. "Sometimes, it's good to be small!" she said.

Our Class Won

There are four first grade classes at our school. The teachers decided to have a contest. Every day each student would take a book home to read with their Mom or Dad. Their parents sent a note saying they had read the book. The class who read the most books would win.

The contest lasted two weeks. Our class really wanted to win the contest. Everyone took home a book each afternoon and read it with their Mom or Dad at night.

There are twenty kids in my class. We read ten books each. That made two hundred books! We won the contest. We beat the next class by only three books.

We were so happy to win. Our classroom got a new red bookcase as a prize. Now we have a place to put all our books.
